WHERLING, W. VA., FEBRUARY 2, 1882.

facts not improbable in themselves were attested by numerous witnesses, creditable and uncontradicted, and who had every opportunity to know the truth, a reasonable or moral certainty would be inspired by that testimony. In such case doubt would be unreasonable or imaginary or speculative. It ought not to be doubt as to whether a party might not be innocent in the face of strong proofs of his guilt, but it must be a sincere doubt whether he had been proved guilty even where the testimony was contradictory, and where so much credit should be given to one side more than the other; the same result might be produced, on the other hand, where opposing proof might be so balanced that the Curcago is applying the cable towing principle—with which canal men are miliar-to street car service. Successful trial has been made on State street with a cable about four miles long, and the servise is to be extended as rapidly as fittings produced, on the other hand, where op-posing proof might be so balanced that the jury might justly doubt on which side, un-der all the circumstances, the truth lay, and in such case the accused party was en-titled to the benefit of the doubt. All that jury the could be expected to do was to be reasonably and morally certain of the facts which they declared to be their verdict." can be prepared. It is intended to run the cable cars at a speed of eight miles an hour, if it is found safe to do so. Cars are fitted with apparatus for grappling and holding the cable. The engineer, who takes the office of the driver on a horse car, stands in the centre of the carriage and y operating a lever starts, stops, or regulates the speed. Several ordinary cars may have effectually answered Mr. Henry be attached to one grip-car, and thus the Bergh's remarkable philipple against vac capacity of a line may be largely increased

Ara great expense we have procured gh our indefatigable grapevine telegraph, the following census report in regard to the showing made by the State of West Virginia for the year 1880 in the matdeath registers show that 5g per cent is the average death rate of the vaccinated attacked by smallpox, while the death rate of unvaccinated is 35 per cent. Dr. Henry Tompkins, the Medical Superintedent of the Fever Hapital of the Manchester Royal Infirmary of Monsale, recently read a paper on smallpox and vaccination, in which he said: ter of live stock and agricultural products. So far as we know, or can ascertain through the grapevine, no paper in Pittsburgh, Wellsburg, Waynesburg or Jacktown has yet given it to the public. It is, therefore, that account intensely valuable and easily worth the tremendous outlay we have endured to procure it:

which he said:

The most striking of all evidence is, perhaps, that derived from the smallpox hospitals themselves. Here the protective inducence of vaccination is proved in a manner beyond all cavil. At Highgate, during an experience of forty years, no nurse or servant being revaccinated has ever contracted the disease, and evidence of the same character I can myself bring forward, for during time that I had charge of the fover hospital more than a thousand cases of smallpox have passed under my care, yet no servant, nurse, porter or other per-We stop the press to inquire whether it is not a wonderful feat to publish this news in advance of the London Times and the Fish Creek Screamer. Ordinary newspapers would stop and blow and rest their case on the above, but the INTELLIORNER'S motto being "Excelsior," it determined to have a similar report in regard to Obio and Pennsylvania if it had to put a mortgage on the establishment in order to distance all competition. Accordingly we rattled the smoothing fron that hangs in ballast at the other end of the grapevine in the cockloft, and at precisely two o'clock this morning by Grubb's observatory time we received the following in the shape of a doublein advance of the London Times and the following in the shape of a doubleleaded, spiral-twisted and copper-plated special from the census man in regard to gentlemen attend hours each week. Ohio and Pennsylvania:

9222,816,047

males in the cities of the United States exhibited in the recent census bylletins, differs so greatly from the proportion between them in the whole country that the figures are remarkable. In the whole country there is an excess of nearly a million males.
The precise figures are: Males, 25,518,820; females, 24,036,963. But in almost all the cities this proportion is reversed. There are forty-five cities of more than 40,000 inhabitants, and in all but nine the females outnumber the males. The nine are Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Columbus, Minneapolis, and St. Paul—all of them in the Mississippi Valley or beyond it. In New York the figures are—males, 509,514; females, 615,785; in Philadel-phia—males, 405,975; females, 441,195; in Broadburn, 2018. P. S.-Had it not been for the snow on the Baltimore & Ohio road this information would have reached us at one o'clock this morning. In consequence of heavy weather on the track we were obliged to unship the letter and get it through by grapevine from Cameron. This accounts for the fact that it did not reach us until 2

The Register will probably publish this males, 590,514; females, 615,785; in Philadelphia—males, 405,075; females, 41,105; in Brooklyn—males, 272,248; females, 204,415; in Boston—males, 172,268; females, 190,571, and in Baltimore—males, 167,303; females, 174,290. Of the nine exceptions San Francisco is the most noticeable, the proportion there being—males, 132,608; females, 101,351; and probably so great a difference is attributable mainly to the Chinese section of the inhabitants. Next in peculiarity is Kansas City, with ne time next week, say a day or two after the INTELLIGENCER reaches in Washington.

The Guiteau Trial and Judge Cox's

Perhaps the one person who won special honors under very adverse circumstances Guiteau trial was the Judge who presided. At one time during the long and weary ten weeks of the trial it looked as public impatience and indignation at the conduct of the assassin, and at the nce secorded him by the Court, would become so violent as to coerce the Judge into a different policy for his own reputation's sake. But it did not, and he held on his way with unchanged equanimity, and carried out his theory to the last, which was that the mental status of the isoner as developed by himself would become apparent to the jury, and assist Ohio. them in arriving at an intelligent and satisfactory verdict. The result proved that the Judge was correct in his theory, and now looking over all the ground, including the rulings of the Court from time to time, and the final charge, it must be said that Judge Cox won laurels in the trial, and is antilled to be considered a cool, clear-headed and able judge. There are some points in his charge to the jury on the subject of the lates that it is the subject of the lates are some points. The subject of in his charge to the jury on the subject of in his charge to the jury on the subject of murder, responsibility and evidence that are entitled to be read more than once, and inasmuch as this case is to be historic we have no doubt that the charge of the court will often be quoted as analysis, in the family are invited. court will often be quoted as authority in the future. "The Government was not bound to abow affirmatively as a part of its proofs the defendant was same. As insanity is an exception, and as a majority of men are same, the law presumed the latter the condition of every man until some reason was shown to believe to the contrary. The burden was then on the defendant who set up insanity as an excuse for the crime to produce proofs in the first instance to show that presumption was mistaken so far as related to the prisoner."

"Murder was committed where a person of sound memory and discretion unlawfully killed a reasonable being against the peace of the United States, with malice aforethought. It had to be proved, first, that death was caused by the act of the accused, and, further, that it was caused with malice aforethought. That did not mean, however, that the Government had to prove any ill will or hatred on the part of the accused toward the deceased. Whore, homicide was shown to have been conmitted, without lawful authority and with deliberate intent, it was sufficiently proved to have been done with malice aforethought, and malice was not disproved by showing the accused had no personal ill will toward the deceased, and that he killed him from other motives, as, for instance, robbery or through mistaking him for another, or, as claimed in this case, to produce a public benefit."
